

5 Steps to Setting Up Meeting Room Displays (Without Breaking the Bank)

Smart workplaces run on seamless meeting room management. Yet many organizations overcomplicate their display setup process. Here's how to get it right, simply and efficiently.

1. Skip the complex wiring

💡 Money-saving truth: Most costly installation headaches come from unnecessary infrastructure work.

- Choose wireless, battery-powered displays
- Avoid expensive electrical work
- Mount anywhere - even on glass
- No need for network cables

2. Keep your IT team happy

💡 Money-saving truth: The less IT overhead, the lower your true costs.

- Choose systems that work with your calendar out of the box
- Avoid solutions that need special servers
- Look for automatic updates

3. Make installation a breeze

💡 Money-saving truth: Simple mounting = faster setup = lower costs.

- Use displays you can mount in minutes
- Pick solutions with flexible mounting options
- Avoid drilling where possible

4. Think beyond day one

💡 Money-saving truth: The cheapest option today isn't always the most cost-effective.

- Pick displays with long battery life
- Choose durable hardware that lasts
- Avoid systems that need constant maintenance

5. Start small, scale smart

💡 Money-saving truth: Test and learn beats big bang every time.

- Start with a few rooms
- Perfect your setup process
- Add more displays as needed

Make it happen

When evaluating your options, remember that successful deployments share common traits: minimal infrastructure requirements, straightforward installation processes, and predictable long-term costs.

By focusing on wireless solutions, flexible mounting options, and scalable implementations, you create a foundation for efficient room management that grows with your needs.
